Read the passage given carefully and the answer the questions that follow it.

Before I landed in Taiwan, I had heard of it as the land of lush green mountains with rich flora and fauna, sea, natural hot springs and a lake surrounded by forests. What nobody shared was that it is also the land of the friendliest people, a disabled-friendly country and women traveler safe destination. Still not affected by the commercialisation that seems to have taken over most other destinations, Taiwan exudes a kind of positivity that has the power to relax you instantly. People are honest, welcoming and friendly. My first landing point in Taiwan was Kaohsiung which is actually a business hub. Rich in terms of art and aesthetics, it is famous for its Love River, rather a cruise along the Love River by the night. Taiwan boasts of a great nightlife. When in Taiwan, it is not unusual to see people outdoors, enjoying street food or enjoying the live bands. For adventure lover, the island offers exciting range of activities like mountain biking, kayaking, paragliding and surfing. Taiwan is also the world's Top Mountain biking destination with its hilly terrain and extensive trail network. No trip to Taiwan is complete without its hot springs experience. Ranked among the world's top 15 hot spring destinations, Taiwan has a great variety of natural springs. Interestingly, a number of resorts offer you the experience in your room itself with hot spring water flowing straight into your bathtub!
